January was originally the eleventh month—not the first—until at least 153 B.C. The month was named for the Roman god Janus, protector of gates and doorways. Janus is depicted with two faces, one looking into the past, the other into the future. On January 5, 2020, Earth will be at perihelion. Perihelion is the point in Earth's orbit where it is closest to the Sun—only 91,398,199 miles away! Given that Earth's orbit around the Sun is an ellipse rather than a perfect circle, there is a point each year where it is nearest (perihelion) and farthest (aphelion) to our shining star.
